

Some Plan to Go Ahead With Polio Program

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Some states have decided to discontinue use of Sabin Type III polio vaccine, but state and local officials in a number of places have adopted a wait and see policy.

Sabin oral vaccine Types I and II will continue to be used generally, checks across the country indicate.

Reaction was mixed after the U.S. Public Health Service announced in Washington Saturday that 11 confirmed cases of Type III polio provided sufficient evidence "to indicate that at least some of these cases have been caused by Type III vaccines."

The special advisory committee of the health service said all 11 confirmed cases occurred in adults. The service recommended limiting the use of Type III vaccine to immunization programs for pre-school and school age children. Continued use of Types I and II for everyone was recommended by the health service.

Secretary Anthony J. Celebrezze—whose Health, Education and Welfare Department embraces the Public Health Service—said Sunday on the NBC television program "Meet the Press" that the odds are one million to one against an adult who has taken Type III Sabin oral vaccine developing the disease.

Celebrezze said that with these odds, he would be willing to take the vaccine himself.

He said that decisions on the vaccine were made by Surgeon General Luther Terry and other experts and by local health officials.

Final decision on whether Type III should be given to adults in mass immunization programs would be made by local authorities even if there was no question about safety, he said.

Celebrezze said there was no incident involving a child who had taken Type III oral vaccine.

A newsman then said Public Health Service records showed that at least four children developed polio after taking Type III oral vaccine.

Celebrezze replied: "The cases, which we cited are those in which there was considered to be a relationship between the vaccine and the disease."

The secretary added that in the children's cases cited by the newsman, no direct relationship between the vaccine and the contraction of the disease had been established.

Some Canadian and New York authorities, a newsman noted, had halted Type III vaccine programs, while other communities were going ahead with immunization programs, and he asked Celebrezze to comment on this.

Celebrezze's comment was: "It's a question on which reasonable minds may differ."

Overtaken Bus Kills the Driver

TYRONZA, Ark. (AP)—A Continental Trailways overturned after a collision with three other vehicles near Tyronza Saturday night, killing the driver of the bus and injuring eight persons.

State police identified the victim as Richard G. Speaks, about 33, of Springfield, Mo. Speaks died on the way to a hospital. He was being taken to Memphis, but traffic was blocked on the Mississippi River Bridge and the ambulance could not get through. The ambulance turned back to West Memphis, but Speaks was dead on arrival there.

Five of the injured were passengers on the bus and three were in the other vehicles. Hospital authorities said none appeared seriously hurt.

Police said the bus hit a car, then skidded into a truck. It careened off the truck and into a filling station, where it turned over on a passenger car.

The accident happened on Highway 3 about three miles south of Tyronza.

Police said the bus was attempting to pass the first car involved when the accident occurred.

Cuba Has 5000 Troops Near U. S. Navy Base

By ROBERT S. MOFFMAN

GUANTANAMO NAVAL BASE, Cuba (AP)—Fidel Castro has deployed about 5,000 to 6,000 troops near this U.S. base in eastern Cuba, according to the intelligence reaching American Navy and Marine commanders.

But U.S. military authorities believe these regulars, bolstered by thousands of militiamen, are there to keep the Cuban people in check rather than to mount an attack on this vital American fleet base.

Guantanamo's command doubts the likelihood of any serious Cuban threat to the 45 square mile base, but the entire military force of about 3,000 men has been trained to fight if trouble comes.

So far little of the new military gear the Soviet Union has supplied to Castro's regime has shown up near this U.S. enclave.

Rear Adm. Edward J. O'Donnell, base commander, said his patrols have not sighted any missile-armed torpedo boats which President Kennedy said have been sent to Cuba.

O'Donnell reported Soviet-made trucks are operating outside Guantanamo's fence, but they have been in the area for some time.

Persons suspected of being Communist bloc nationals, including some Asians, have been spotted near the base.

Castro has perhaps 100 Soviet-made Mig fighters, but there have been no intrusions of Guantanamo's air space since the spring of 1961.

Most of Castro's forces in this area are stationed some miles from Guantanamo's 26-mile perimeter, but the Cubans maintain a line of one and two-man outposts within 100 yards of the base fence.

U.S. officers generally rate the Cuban soldiers facing Guantanamo as of good quality and well disciplined.

This has prompted speculation that name calling, rock throwing and other harassment of U.S. sentinels may be an officially inspired effort to provoke U.S. Marines into counter action.

U.S. guards have been ordered to refrain from shouting back or making any gestures that Cuban cameras could photograph to back up Castro's claims that U.S. military forces are engaged in provocative acts.

Castro has one effective means of turning the screw on Guantanamo if he wishes. The big bases water supply comes from inside Cuban territory, but so far he has made no attempt to cut it off.

Strategy Plotted by Several Sources on Amendments; Here's the Lowdown

By JOHN R. STARR

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Two years ago this November, Arkansas voters went to the polls to decide the fate of constitutional amendments to free cities of state restrictions on taxing power and to permit salary increases for state and county officials.

There had been no concentrated campaign for or against either of the proposals. It was generally assumed both would be approved. The hot campaign had been over a third amendment which would have permitted closing public schools against integration.

The school amendment, fought vigorously by the Arkansas Education Association and other potent political forces, was soundly defeated by a two to one margin. The taxing and salary amendments went down the drain with it.

Some felt that they were caught in a backwash of negativism from the fight over the school amendment. Others said voters simply were willing to (1) take a chance on higher taxes by giving city councils authority to raise them (2) increase the cost of government by opening the door to higher salaries for officials.

All three amendments were proposed by the 1959 Legislature. The General Assembly can put up to three amendment proposals on the ballot each two years.

The school closing amendment was dead and everybody knew it. But proponents of the taxing and salary measures, still contending voters were confused, got them introduced again when lawmakers met in 1961.

Legislators cast a chary eye at the proposals. Many felt that to send them to another vote only two years later was an insult to the intelligence of the voters.

But county officials (who want the salary amendment) and municipalities (whose officials contend the taxing amendment is the difference between progress and stasis) had strong libbies. The amendments were slightly rewritten and stuck back on the ballot for 1962.

But this time interested parties do not intend to sit quietly back and wait for the amendments to pass.

Last week Fred Pickens, a prominent Newport attorney, was named chairman of a committee which will make a statewide push for the taxing amendment, Amendment 50.

And this week key figures in the several associations of county officials will meet in Little Rock to plot strategy for a massive campaign in behalf of the salary measure, Amendment 52.

The forgotten amendment this year is No. 51, an innocuous proposal which simply states a constitutional guarantee that no child shall be denied an education because of refusal to attend an integrated school, provided school officials think such attendance might be injurious to the child.

Amendment 50 won't get through without a fight, however. Fred Livingstone Jr., of Batesville said Saturday he was forming a committee to oppose it and a

Rusk, Senate Group in Secret Talks on Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk went before the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services committees in joint session today as the groups met to draft a congressional stand on the Soviet-aided military buildup in Communist Cuba.

The committees met behind closed doors, under instructions to report no later than Thursday on a flood of proposals backing strong action by President Kennedy—including the use of troops if necessary—to prevent the establishment of a Red beachhead on the island.

The resolution which was sidetracked to the committees last Thursday when the Senate passed legislation authorizing Kennedy to call up 150,000 Reservists if he finds it necessary, to meet any world crisis.

They were originally offered, mostly by Republicans, as riders for the Reservists measure, but agreement was reached to handle them separately.

Along with the Republican proposals, the committees considered a resolution offered by Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., the majority leader, putting congress on record as supporting the President in any move—including the use of force if necessary—to prevent the Fidel Castro regime in Cuba from "exporting its aggressive purposes."

William P. Bundy, deputy assistant secretary of defense for international security affairs, appeared for Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

The show of unity behind Kennedy's request may come unhinged as the committees sift some of the suggestions on how the United States should get tough with Cuba.

A Democrat, Sen. George A. Smathers of Florida, has indicated he will try to tack onto Mansfield's resolution formal recognition of a Cuban government-in-exile.

In advance of the session, Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., offered a series of revisions that he said would strengthen the Mansfield resolution and "Remove partisan political implications."

The House had planned to act on the President's request today under rules prohibiting amendments and limiting debate to 40 minutes. But several members objected, and House action was postponed till next Monday. Then on the President's request today under rules prohibiting amendments and limiting debate to 40 minutes. But several members objected, and House action was postponed until next Monday. The request will be taken up then under rules permitting greater debate and the offering of amendments.

Meanwhile, the House Foreign Affairs Committee considers resolutions on Cuba.

Scott discussed the Cuban situation over the weekend on a recorded radio program for Pennsylvania stations and on a local television program.

Scott said U.S. ships and planes would intercept ships carrying arms and Communist technicians to Cuba and "serve notice that these cargoes cannot be landed in Cuba."

"If they proceed," he said, "a shot would be fired across the bows, and closer and closer and closer until we took the risk of possibly having to sink some of these ships the Russians send over. This is drastic, but it is exactly what Theodore Roosevelt would have done."

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said on a television program taped for New York stations that Kennedy "should serve notice on the U.S.S.R. that the flow of arms, military material and its technicians to Cuba must stop. If it does not stop, it will then be the President's duty to stop it by whatever means he deems appropriate."

Husband Offers Formula For Marital Happiness

By HELEN WORDEN ESKINE

Dear Helen: Where there are no secrets to hide, marriage can be one prolonged honeymoon. I say this to encourage frankness between husband and wife.

After 48 years of married life, I'm still in love with my wife and she with me. She was 16, I not quite 18 when we got a justice of the peace out of bed to marry us. Ours was a brief but passionate courtship, memory of which still gives us a thrill.

Like most young people we had to scrimp and save at first. Instead of a chore we made it a game; put our household money in a jar on the kitchen shelf and said, "This is it for the week." One day would be feast, another famine, but my wife learned to do the most with the least, better than any woman going. As a result she's still a wonderful cook and housekeeper.

We made the cornerstone of our marriage frankness. By confiding all our secrets, there was no occasion to lie or concoct the kind of phony stories which wreck so many marriages. Nor have we ever had any fear of somebody talking out of turn because we always know the worst and the best about one another.

We are warm-blooded, affectionate and still enjoy the physical as well as spiritual aspects of married life. At 46 my wife retains her shapely figure and come-hither smile. I've kept in form by swimming, playing tennis and walking. Folks say we radiate health and magnetism.

Counselors would say such complete candor would be fatal to any marriage. Well, ours is living proof that it isn't. We have children and grandchildren. Not one drinks, smokes, swears or has been divorced. Like ourselves, they are well-adjusted, happy, normal people who, because of flexible minds and healthy bodies, will never grow old. —The Honey-mooners.

Dear Honey-mooners: It is difficult to lay down hard and fast rules in marriage. It all depends upon the individuals. You and your wife are evidently outgoing, uninhibited human beings who haven't found it too difficult to know yourselves, and in the process, learn about each other.

This, of course, is a tremendous factor in a successful marriage. But, as your letter indicates, physical compatibility is just as important. The Victorian hand still rests heavily upon most wives and many husbands. As a result of this repression they are in bitter conflict with themselves, each other and life — especially the women.

Our high schools, colleges and universities neglect this aspect of feminine education. There are plenty of courses in home economics, child care and cooking but no school for wives as such. More's the pity.

Dear Helen: I have read in your column about families where there is conflict between grandparents and grandchildren. What would you say about grandparents who don't bother at all with their only grandchildren? These are my husband's parents, my own people are dead.

My children always ask, why doesn't Grandma take us down town, or why can't we go to Grandma's house? When we do take them Grandma and Grandpa act as if they didn't want them around. For this reason my husband and I stay away, even though he loves his family. I, on the other hand, think families should be together at certain times. What do I tell the children? —Mrs. Lincoln

Dear Mrs. Lincoln: Before you tell the children anything, try another tack. Remember that even in families, invitations work both ways. Why sit back and wait for your husband's parents to ask you and your children to their house? Why not ask them to yours? If Grandma and Grandpa can't seem to warm up to the children on their own, invite them in next time one of your youngsters has a birthday party. Or plan a family picnic and make a fuss over them as special guests.

If you take the initiative your husband's parents will find that they not only have to reciprocate, but will want to.

Dear Helen: While in the army I met a girl for whom I care a great deal. When my leave was over, we continued to correspond. Suddenly she stopped writing. Two months later I received a letter from her in which she explained that her mother had read my mail and hidden it from her.

Now that I'm home again and out of the service, this girl's mother refuses to let me see her daughter. We still feel the same way about each other and can think of no way to explain to the mother that the girl has her own life to live. —G. I. Joe

Dear Joe: Take a lesson from your experience as a soldier. Winning over your girl's mother requires as much strategy as winning an enemy stronghold in war. She may have the wrong impression because of the tone of your letters to her daughter. It's up to you to correct that impression. Tell her honestly what your intentions are; ask permission to court her daughter; and show her by your manners and good behavior that you're a worthy candidate for son-in-law.

Send your problem to Helen Worden Eskine. Be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope and address her care of this newspaper. Helpful leaflets available. Write for "Financial Troubles."

Wet, Dry Vote in 15 Areas

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Wet-dry elections in 15 areas may be on the Nov. 6 general election ballot.

That many petitions for such elections have been filed with the secretary of state.

If drys are successful in the elections, the vote would bring to 5 the number of dry counties in the state. There are now 41 of the state's 75 counties totally dry and 18 partially dry.

Dry forces have called for county-wide votes in Carroll, Conway, Calhoun and Ouachita. Elections also are set for Kingsland Township in Cleveland County, Harrison Township in Union, Glaze Township in Jackson, Baxter and Buckville Townships in Garland and Red Stripe, Franklin, Bellmore and Wallace Townships in Stone.

Wet forces seek an election to allow sale of liquor in the Bois d'Arc Township in Hempstead County.

headquarters would be opened soon in Little Rock.

So far no opposition to Amendment 52 has materialized, but it didn't need opposition to get beat in 1960.

Gov. Orval E. Faubus and Winthrop Rockefeller, chairman of the Arkansas Industrial Development Commission, will speak at Tuesday's county officials meeting indicating they favor the proposal.

Amendment 50, if adopted, would give cities a virtual free hand in taxation, subject only to approval of voters.

At present cities are limited to taxing property (five mills for general purposes and five mills for capital improvements) and a few minor sources of revenue, such as franchise taxes, business license fees and parking meter revenues.

Under Amendment 50, cities could levy a sales tax or even devise some new tax if voters approve.

It also gives voters the privilege of setting salary maximums for elected officials. The constitutional maximum for mayors now is $5,000.

The salary amendment offered in 1960 simply doubled the maximum salary of state and county officials. The maximum county salary now is $5,000.

Amendment 52 has a sliding scale both at state and county levels.

The governor's pay would go from $10,000 to $18,000; lieutenant governor from $2,500 to $3,800; secretary of state, auditor and treasurer from $5,000 to $9,000; attorney general from $6,000 to $10,800 and land commissioner from $5,000 to $8,820.

The county pay scale is gauged on population and, in each instance, the county judge and sheriff would get more pay than other officials.

The scale: Population 50,000 and over: Judge and sheriff $9,850, county clerk, circuit and chancery clerks, assessor, collector and treasurer $8,865.

Population 30,000 to 50,000: $9,500 and $8,500.

Population 20,000 to 30,000: $9,000 and $8,100.

Population 9,900 to 20,000: $8,500 and $7,500.

Population under 9,900: $6,000 and $5,400.

Broyles Is Alarmed at Showing

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Arkansas Coach Frank Broyles put his Arkansas Razorbacks through a 90-minute scrimmage session Saturday and then broke out the crying towel.

With the opener against Oklahoma State only a week away, he wailed, the Razorbacks are even farther behind than he thought.

The only bright spot Broyles saw in the Saturday workout was the play of ends Jim Grizzle and Jerry Lamb and the placekicking of Tom McKnelly.

Of Grizzle and Lamb, Broyles said, "If everybody worked like they do, we'd be farther along."

And of McKnelly: "He may never be as famous as Mickey Cisell, but he kicks them farther." Cisell was the kicking specialist of the 1960-61 Razorback and his boots won some dramatic victories.

Broyles said he was thinking about some lineup changes.

The only scoring in the Saturday session came on a 37-yard field goal by McKnelly and an eight-yard touchdown pass from sophomore quarterback Bill Gray to Lamb.

The pass climaxed a 70-yard march, the only sustained drive of the day.

Broyles said linemen were not following through on blocking and the back showed no ability to cut. He said, however, that half the squad was sick with colds.

Broyles said he hopes to begin slackening off of heavy work today. The collision with Oklahoma State comes Saturday night in Little Rock.

Broyles released a 41-man freshman roster Saturday and said the Shoats will begin working out to-

New Polio Case

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The state Health Department has reported a new case of paralytic polio in Arkansas. Dr. J. T. Herron, state health officer, said Saturday the case was in Washington County and the victim a 31-year-old woman. Herron said that since the Sabin oral vaccine program in the state has been postponed, persons needing booster shots of Salk vaccine should get them.

day under Coach Jack Davis.

The list includes most of the brightest names in 1961 Arkansas high school football: Bobby Nix of Benton, Joe Black of Smackover, Jon Brittenum of Brinkley, Fred Hogan of Jonesboro, Jackie Brad suell of Van Buren, Jerry Moty of El Dorado and Bill Cole and Jack Thompson from Fort Smith's Big Nine championship club.

The roster lists eight tackles who weigh more than 200 pounds. The largest squad member is Steve Macon of Jonesboro, standing 6 feet 4 inches and weighing 256 pounds.

Leading a list of 13 out of state players is Ken Oze of Fort Worth, whom Broyles said was one of the most sought after players in Texas.

Brittenum is the only natural quarterback. Arkansas didn't need too many signal callers this year. He had a half a dozen on the 1961 frosh team.

Voters to Decide on Ted Kennedy

By JACK BELL
BOSTON (AP) — Massachusetts voters decide Tuesday whether there are too many Kennedys in public life or if another of the clan should have a crack at high public office.

That seemed the overriding issue today as Edward M. Kennedy, 30, brother of President Kennedy, and Edward J. McCormack, 39, nephew of House Speaker John W. McCormack, climaxed a whirlwind campaign for a short-term U.S. Senate nomination.

At stake in November balloting is the remaining two years of the term Kennedy left behind to become president.

Two republicans will fight it out at the polling places for their party's nomination and the opportunity—if Kennedy should win his primary—to take the dynasty issue to the voters for a second round in the general election.

They are George C. Lodge, former assistant secretary of Labor, and Rep. Laurence Curtis, 10-year member of Congress whose district was reapportioned out of existence.

Millions of words have been poured out by the candidates at street rallies, clambakes and on television about the issues of the campaign.

But the man on the street in Boston, Greenfield or Pittsfield seems considerably more interested in the question of whether Ted Kennedy should have a chance to join his president brother and his attorney general brother in holding major office in Washington.

The first go-around on this matter won't be decided entirely by Democrats. Mr. Kennedy demonstrated a way with the party organization by winning its state convention endorsement for the nomination.

But there are 1,200,000 registered independents in Massachusetts. Ordinarily they don't bother about primaries. But this time a substantial number of them seem to be steamed up by the Kennedy-McCormack contest. Independents outnumber the 900,000 registered Democrats and 600,000 Republicans.

President Kennedy will vote in Boston's West End. Speaker McCormack will cast his ballot in Dorchester. Both have kept publicly aloof from the campaign. But their influence obviously has been felt in behalf of their favorites.

Lodge and Curtis approached the countdown with the former regarded as somewhat of a favorite.

Lodge, bidding for his first elective office, went beyond personalities and state issues to strike out at President Kennedy's handling of international affairs.

Curtis, who is 60, banged away that the voters ought to "separate

Lines Drawn by President Over Cuba

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has drawn half a dozen lines of U.S. security interest in the Cuban crisis. He gave a clear warning to Prime Minister Fidel Castro that he can violate any one of them only at the peril of war with the United States.

The policy declaration on Cuba which the President made at his news conference Thursday spelled out the conditions of possible U.S. military action more clearly than any of his previous statements on the crisis.

He warned Castro—and presumably intended his words for Soviet Premier Khrushchev as well — against endangering or interfering with:

1. The U.S. naval base at Guantanamo, Cuba.
2. U.S. passage to the Panama Canal.
3. Missile and space activities at Cape Canaveral, Fla.
4. The "lives of American citizens in this country."
5. The safety of any nation in this hemisphere. Specifically Kennedy warned against Cuba's ever attempting to use "force or the threat of force" against other Western Hemisphere countries.

To these specific items, the President added a general warning against Cuba's becoming "an offensive military base on significant capacity for the Soviet Union."

He made clear that he did not intend his list to exclude other actions which the Cubans might take but which he had not specifically mentioned. These fall under

Mr. Ballard is shown above accepting the keys from a 1962 Dodge Dart from C. B. Nunn, Sr., of the Nunn-Pentecost Motor Co. which is furnishing the car this year.

IN THIS COURSE STUDENTS LEARN GOOD DRIVING attitudes, safety rules, traffic laws and regulations and precision driving. Students taking the course can also save on insurance.

"I THINK THIS CAN BE ONE OF THE MOST VALUABLE courses a student is offered in high school," Mr. Ballard noted. "It is valuable to a student who already knows how to drive as well as to the non-drivers." Mr. Ballard hopes to begin an adult class next summer.

his general statement that "if at any time the Communist build-up in Cuba were to endanger or interfere with our security in any way... then this country will do whatever must be done to protect its own security and that of its allies."

Arkansas Mining Is Valuable

Giants Remain Four Games Behind L. A.

By JACK HAND

Associated Press Sports Writer

Willie Mays did his best and the Chicago Cubs slowed down Los Angeles' pumant express but still the San Francisco Giants couldn't win for losing.

With two weeks to go, the Giants' situation is indeed desperate. They trail the Dodgers by four games with 12 to play after losing their fifth straight Sunday 6-4 to Pittsburgh in 10 innings.

Smoky Burgess' two-run homer in the 10th did the Giants in after Mays, returning to the lineup for the first time since he collapsed on the bench Wednesday, had tied the score with a three-run homer in the eighth. It was Willie's 44th of the year.

The Dodgers' seven game winning streak was broken by the Cubs, whose Bob Ruhl allowed only four hits in a 5-0 victory.

Nelson Mathews, a 21-year-old rookie who came up from the Wenatchee, Wash., farm last week, hit a grand slam homer, his first major league home run, off Stan Williams in the first inning.

The New York Mets knocked out Joey Jay, Cincinnati's 21-game winner, and beat the Reds 6-2 with Marv Throneberry showing the way. The Reds remained six games behind the Dodgers with only 10 to go.

Art Mahaffey won his 19th game as the Phillies continued to plague the St. Louis Cardinals, beating Bob Gibson 3-1. The Cards defeat combined with Milwaukee's 5-4 victory over Houston, left the two clubs tied for fifth place.

In the American League, Boston beat New York 4-3, the first time Gene Conley ever won over the Yankees. Minnesota moved within three games of the Yankees by shunting Cleveland 4-3. Detroit thumped Los Angeles 4-2; Chicago downed Washington 7-1, and Kansas City defeated Baltimore 12-3.

Los Angeles and San Francisco each have six at home and six away. St. Louis could be the key, if any is needed at this stage. The Dodgers play the Cardinals six times and the Giants play the Cards five times.

The Cubs broke out of a 10-game losing slump while delaying the Dodgers' pumant rush. They also stopped Marty Wills who didn't steal a base and was thrown out for the 12th time in 104 attempts. He has stolen 92 bases, four short of Ty Cobb's record of 9 in 1915.

Throneberry drove in three runs and hit his 16th homer for the Mets as Roger Craig, a 23-game loser, won his ninth, and Jay, a 21-game winner, lost his 15th.

Johnny Callison's 22nd home run with a man on in the eighth was the difference in Mahaffey's victory over the Cards. Bob Gibson hit the Phil's 13th win in their last 16 games in a drive on

Hornung Set for National Loop Champs

By JACK CLARY

Associated Press Sports Writer

Paul Hornung is as ready as he'll ever be to help the Green Bay Packers defend their National Football League title this year, and, that spells M-U-R-D-E-R for six other Western Conference hopefuls.

Hornung, who was the NFL's Most Valuable Player and scoring king in 1961 as the Packers won their second straight Western title and the world championship was almost painstakingly slow in rounding into form this year after being discharged from the Army in late July.

But he was in mid-season form Sunday as the Packers opened defense of their title with a solid 34-7 victory over the Minnesota Vikings, scoring three touchdowns, kicking two field goals and adding four conversions for 28 points.

The day's biggest crowd was at Cleveland where 81,115 saw the rejuvenated Browns defeat the Eastern Conference Champions New York Giants 17-7. In other games, St. Louis, with halfback John David Crow leading the way, upset Philadelphia 27-21; Detroit overwhelmed Pittsburgh 45-7; Baltimore came from behind on quarterback Johnny Unitas' passing to upend Los Angeles 30-27; Chicago's Bears upset the San Francisco 49ers 30-14 and Washington and the Dallas Cowboys played a 35-35 tie.

In the American Football League, Boston upset Houston 34-21 and San Diego rolled over New York 40-14 in the only Sunday games scheduled.

Hornung, holder of the single season scoring record of 17 points which he set in 1960 in the second of three consecutive scoring crowns, gained 7 yards in 10 carries. But 50 of these resulted in touchdowns runs, and he added field goals of 10 and 45 yards.

The former Notre Dame All-America, who scored a record-making 19 points in the NFL's title game last year, scored his team's first 20 points before Bart Starr hit Ron Kramer with an 18-yard scoring pass. He then added the final eight points.

Jim Ninowski, obtained from Detroit for quarterback Milt Plum hit Rich Kreitling with a 17-yard TD pass in the third period to break a 7-7 tie and Lou Groza's 29-yard field goal added the insurance.

Tom Wilson, one of the 15 new faces on the Browns, combined with last year's rushing leader Jimmy Brown for 210 yards, and the alert Brown defense turned three interceptions into scoring strikes and recovered a Giant fumble in their own end zone to avert another score.

Crow, out most of the 1961 season with a broken ankle and sidelined nearly a month during the training season with an ankle sprain, scored three touchdowns for the Cardinals, one on a 2-yard pass from Sam Etcheberry,

Softball Game on Donkeys Here Friday

Friday, Sept. 21 at 8 p.m. in Legion Park at Fair Park a Donkey softball game will be played between members of the Hope Jaycees and Lions Club. Admission is $1 for adults and 50 cents for children.

The game was held last year and fans asked that another be played this year. Proceeds and the aid of local merchants helped the Jaycees hold a party for 57 children at Christmas last year. Some 36 couldn't attend the party so baskets of food, fruit, cookies etc. were taken to their homes.

The Jaycees and Lions hope to make this year's Christmas bigger and better. Public support at the game Friday night will help finance the party. The Donkey game is being held again this year at the request of fans who saw the hilarious contest last year.

who also hit Sonny Randle on a 8-yard scoring aerial. Crow's 2-yard TD run in the third period put the Cardinals ahead to stay.

Plum held up his end of the Ninowski deal, passing for three Detroit scores, two to Gail Cogdill in a 21-point third period. Pat Studstill set up two of them with explosive kick returns, and also scored later on a 9-yard pass from Plum.

Unitas, hearing unfamiliar jeers by the Baltimore fans in the second half, threw two touchdown passes in the final five minutes to bail out the Colts. He hit Ray Berry for 21 yards then won it with a 14-yarder to Jimmy Orr, after getting the Colts away to a 14-0 lead on a pair of TD passes to Dee Mackey.

Roosevelt Taylor's 42-yard run with an intercepted pass shook the Bears out of their slump, and Willie Gallimore added the clincher with scoring runs of 37 and 77 yards in the second half.

The Redskins' Bobby Mitchell, obtained from Cleveland during the off-season, and quarterback Norm Snead engaged in a dog-eat-dog battle with Dallas quarterbacks Don Meredith and Eddie LeBaron and end Fred Clark. Mitchell scored three times, one on a 92-yard kickoff return and the others on scoring passes of 81 and 6 yards from Snead. Meredith hit Clarke with 58- and 55-yard TD losses and LeBaron threw 11 to him for another Dallas' Sam Baker missed a 35-yard field goal in the final seconds as the Cowboys tried to pull it out.
